asserted came here from Philadelphia to "aid in the removal" of Dr. Cronin, is under arrest, there seems to be no doubt they have him in charge, and that important evidence of some nature has been secured against him. This afternoon Harry Jordan, the man who came from Philadelphia some time ago, and who is said to have been an intimate friend of McGeehan's, was placed under arrest, to be held as a witness. It is suspected that he knows something of McGeehan's movehe knows something of McGeehan's move-ments that may prove of value. He is said to have belonged to the Clan-na Gael fac-tion which was opposed to Cronin, and it is charged he had frequently denounced the doctor in public. Detective Dan Coughlin is guarded with the utmost secrecy, no one being allowed to converse with him without an order from the mayor or chief of police. His partner, D. tective Whalen, who acan order from the mayor or chief of police. His partner, Detective Whalen, who accompanied Coughlin in his search for the man for whom Coughlin hired a horse on May 4, has been suspended from duty, pending an investigation. The report that Tierner, one of the employes of Sullivan, the ice man, had disappeared, is denied in an evening paper, which asserts that one of its reporters saw him to-day. W. L. King, who is under arrest, does not answer the description of the man of that name whom Woodruff says took part in the removal of the trunk on the night of Cronin's disappearance, and though he is something like the man, the police do not believe he is the man wanted.

Luke Dillon, who came here from Philadelphia to assist in ferreting out the murderers, says he has received a telegram saying that the Clan-na-Gael of Philadelphia have sent him $1,000 to forward the work.

Woodruff was to-day shown a picture of bolice station cell, where he has been detained on suspicion. An examination by a justice was held immediately within the stone walls of the dungeon. A few moments later the magistrate ordered a commitment, and Coughlin was hurried to the county jail. The warrant was sworn out by John Cronin, brother of the deceased doctor. Coughlin in charged directly with murder.

It is learned that Detective Coughlin was murder.

It is learned that Detective Coughlin was arrested on the charge of murder, not because of any new evidence that had been procured, but because his attorney was attempting to get him out of the hands of the police on a writ of habeas corpus.

It is learned that Coughlin was to-day subjected to a severe course in the sweatbox. He is said to be one of the brightest officers of the force and was one of Capt. Schaack's best men during the time of the pumping process would be a matter of interest, but the police refuse to talk. No one was allowed to see Coughlin all day, not even an attorney, who had been employed by his triends.

The young man, King, arrested on the strength of Woodruff's story, was released this evening, the police believing him to be

NEW YORK, May 28 .- The Herald prints this morning the following from Chicago: ullivan, the ice man, confesses he had known Coughlin for years, instead of having become acquainted with him only since the murder. He also admitted he was a the murder. He also admitted he was a member of the Clan-na-Gael in good standing, and was present at Lincoin hall the night of March 22d last, when Cronin and others were initiated. He was confronted with the testimony of Justic Mahoney, to the effect that he was a member of the Clan-na-Gael, and he did not deny it.

Sullivan is an ex-street car conductor. When Sullivan was in the employ of the North Side Street Car company he became acquainted, as was natural, with many detectives and policemen, especially with those on the north side, and his denial tectives and policemen, especially with those on the north side, and his denial heretofore that he knew any Chicago de-tectives or policemen go for nothing. He also worked in the iron mines of Michigan, and in this way became ac-quainted with the relatives of Coughlin, in Hanceck county

I asked Mayor Cregier when he came out if there was anything in Sullivan's statement of a startling nature and he said there was. "Is there enough in it to secure some-body's arrest and indictment?" "Indeed there i, but I can't tell you anything about it." Capt. Wing received a letter this afternoon postmarked Holly Springs, Miss., dated May 24. It was signed "H. C. R." and gave Capt. Wing the address of the man who drove the wagon containing the trunks at least a part of the way from the cottage at No. 1.878 North Ashland avenue to the catch basin at Ffty-Ninth street and the Evanston road where the corpse was found.

This morning a real estate agent identified him as the man who rented a room opposite Cronin's office. Richardson, superintendent of the San Pedro Coal and Coke company at Carcottage where Cronin was murdered was first taken to this room. McGeehan was not at his boarding place on the night of the murder and cannot give an account of himself at that time. It is charged he had threatened to "remove" Cronin. thage, N. M., by C. A. Robinson, the sher iff of Socorro, N. M. The murder was committed May 15 at 8 p. m. It was pay day at the mines and Richardson and Clerk the robbers came. One of them drew a re. volver on the clerk and told him to hold up his hands. Richardson was standing in the door that led into another room, and stepped back to get a shotgun. He turned around to defend the clerk, when one of the men stepped in at another door and shot Richardson in the back, the ball passing through the heart, killing him instantly. One man guarded the clerk while the other robbed the office of $14,000 By this time a crowd had surrounded the while the other robbed the office of $14,000 By this time a crowd had surrounded the building and the robbers, mounting their horses, made their way through the assembled miners amid a shower of builets, one of which killed one of their horses, compelling both robbers to make their escape on one horse. The murderers were trailed about eighty miles of the Panhandle of Texas. On the road over the mountain they dropped an envelope containing $4,500 and buried a bag containing $4,000 in silver, which was found by the officers. The officers came to Childers Wednesday death.

Another arrest has been made in connection with the case. The man King, described by prisoner Woodruff as the person who hired him to steal a horse the night of Dr. Cronin's disappearance, was captured yesterday in a house of ill-fame. The arrest was made with great secrecy. In a number of particulars King answers the description given of him by Woodfuff. It is somewhat of a mystery why King has not been arrested before, as is understood from the officers that he has at no time apparently manifested a desire to leave the city.

While I believe no one is more susceptible than I of every personal kindness, and while I am sure no one values more his personal friendships, certainly it should cause no surprise when I say these things are not more cherished than my attachment and loyalty to the true democratic faith, and my obligations to the cardinal principles of its party organizations. I have been honored by the party far beyond my deserts; indeed, no man can deserve its highest honors. After six years of public service, I return to you, my party friends. It is not given to man to meet all the various and conflicting views of party duty and policy which prevail in an organization where individual opinion is so freely tolerated as in the democratic party, and yet when they are honestly held and advocated they should provoke no bitterness or condemnation; but when they are dishonestly proclaimed, as mere cover and pretext for personal recentment and disappointment, they should be met by exposure and the contempt which they deserved. No man can lay down a trust which he has held in behalf of a generous and confiding people and feel that at all which he has held in behalf of a generous and confiding people and feel that at all times he has met in the best possible way the requirements of his trust; but if he is not derelict in duty, if he has conscientiously devoted his efforts and his judgment to the people's service.
